Background

In March 2020 Sydney began to adapt to changes in response to the global pandemic, Covid-19. One of the adaptations was the creation of new cycling infrastructure that would help manage capacity of public transport by providing a safe way to get around by bike.

One of the new pop-up cycleways runs between Lang Road and Driver Avenue Centennial Park. Monitoring and evaluation of the pop-up cycleway showed more people are riding since the cycleway was built and confirms this route is a key connection.

The City has received comments requesting parking be reinstated and reporting that since the cycleway was built, there has been an increase in near misses at Moore Park Road and Poate Road.

We exhibited a Review of Environmental Factors (REF) that will allow the temporary pop-up cycleway to remain while we develop an alternate option for a safe cycling connection on Oxford Street. The review considers the current state of the street, impacts due to the pop-up cycleway and benefits of the project.

Engagement summary and activities

From 12 March to 9 April 2021, we asked the community for feedback on REF to keep the cycleway for up to two years.

The purpose of the engagement was to make REF available for comments that will inform a report to Council who will make a determination on the document.

The Sydney Your Say page was created and visited 883 times during the consultation period. The plan was downloaded 281 times.

A notification letter was sent to 2250 properties.

We received a total of 123 submissions during the public exhibition period.

PUBLIC CONSULTATION PERIOD
13 March 2021 to 9 April 2021

Why we're doing this

In mid-2020 we worked with Transport for NSW to build temporary pop-up cycleways along key transport routes outlined in our cycling strategy and action plan.

These new safe transport connections provide more options for people to travel around the city. They free up space on buses and trains where there is less capacity due to public health orders.

The pop-up cycleways have been well used and supported by our communities.

We are now looking at other options for safe cycling connections. We will work with Transport for NSW and Woollahra Council to develop a cycleway on Oxford Street between Taylor Square and Centennial Park. When we have developed a concept design we will consult extensively with our communities.

What we're doing

We're seeking your feedback on a review of environmental factors. This will allow the temporary pop-up cycleways on Moore Park Road and Fitzroy Street to remain for up to 2 years. Once the Oxford Street cycleway is completed, we intend to remove the pop-up cycleways on Moore Park Road and Fitzroy Street.

The review considers the current state of the street, impacts due to the pop-up cycleway and benefits of the project.
